

Technology in the Classroom

This workshop will include an overview of resources and tools available to faculty for incorporating technology into the classroom. It will provide specific examples of how utilizing technology can foster greater learning. Examples include collaborative online tools, resource management, as well as current instructional technology trends. Additionally, as a group we will explore technologies that faculty are currently using or would like to use in the classroom, so bring your ideas. This valuable topic will be presented by Peter DiGregorio, Coordinator of Instructional Technology, and Gayle Sheridan, Instructional Media Coordinator.
